Varsha's choice!

Varsha had chosen the boy of her life. She was having a friendly chat with her Aunt Kamala who was obsessed with Silk Sarees – she knew a thing or two there. She felt that parallels could be drawn with Silk Sarees with anything else in life... including life partner selection!

Aunt Kamala cleared her throat...“First, the material... Do you go for a traditional and orthodox pure silk pure zari saree? Or, would you rather choose a pure silk complemented with tested zari? Do you prefer trendy silk cotton? From your reply, I can tell you whether you have selected an orthodox, trendy or modern boy!”

Aunt continued, “Well, second, the color... Do you prefer a more calm and soothing color like off-white or cream? Or, more perfect traditional silk colors like maroon and blue? That tells me whether your man is soft-natured or bold and outgoing!”

“Then, for the patterns.... Do you like a saree generally plain with fewer floral motifs on the body and pallu? Or do you like stripes or checks or grand motifs throughout the body and pallu? Depending on this, your man could be a humble guy or a man that grabs the credit that he deserves”.

“The only difference... “, Her aunt paused, “You can select many Silk Sarees of different features. But you can only choose one boy for your life!”, and she laughed at her own philosophical musings.

Varsha curiously looked at her...“Aunty... I have chosen a pure silk pure zari saree that is cream colored with few floral motifs!”. Aunt Kamala was speechless now!
