

Delay for a while... not forever!

There's a pretty good chance that you have experienced situations like these!

- The alarm goes off at 6 am sharp on a weekday. It's ok to press snooze for once... Just imagine pressing the snooze every 10 minutes and waking up at 8 am. You have pretty much lost that day ☹
- A lovely property is on the market. You feel this could as well be your family home... You haven't bothered to call the property agent for three weeks now. When you decide to call, it has become someone else's ☹

You can always delay taking decisions, small or big. However, remember – time waits for none! If you procrastinate for too long, the decision that you take could be worthless. Keep focused and work towards your decision progressively and make a call quick enough – this will ensure that you don't end losing out!

Could we apply this approach while purchasing a saree, salwar or kurta? Yes, why not! When you like a particular design, color or texture, check the prices, research for a while and settle for it. If you defer your decision for too long, the garment might have lost its trend by then (or still worse, maybe run out of stock) which is not the outcome you are expecting. After you purchase from Store X, if you find a cheaper price in Store Y, it is ok to call back Store X to see the reasoning behind their higher price tag. After all, as a customer, you are a reason for any store to survive!

Now, it's time for you to buy that blue salwar that you have been eyeing for more than a week... bye for now!
